 Cloud. The surface is rough, but it does show some evidence of smoothing attempts. The unscored side has an interesting dip. It runs vertically along the longest margin, and is rounded at the ends. The fragment also thickens under the circular incision. The incision pattern is also distinctive. While there are crisscross designs - there is also a concentration of circular markings and a number of random lines are also present.
 There is no slip or paint. No applique.
